US Climate Action Center Side Event

Powering Climate Action through Public-Private Partnerships

Friday, December 6, 16:00 – 17:30 CET, Hall 6, US Climate Action Center at WWF Pavilion, UNFCCC Blue Zone

Jointly hosted by the Business Council for Sustainable Energy and Alliance to Save Energy

Watch the live webcast: wearestillin.com/COP25

This event will highlight how U.S. clean energy and energy efficiency executives and thought leaders are powering positive impacts toward meeting climate goals—and magnifying these impacts through international public-private collaboration.

The first panel, U.S. Private Sector Builds Confidence for Climate Action, will showcase how the contributions of the private sector, through clean energy technologies, carbon markets and corporate leadership on climate action can build confidence and create both market opportunities and political space for greater and faster political ambition.

Moderator: Lisa Jacobson, President, Business Council for Sustainable Energy

Speakers:

- Nanette Lockwood, Senior Director, Climate Policy, Ingersoll Rand

Business Council for Sustainable Energy Events at COP 25

- Mary Grady, Deputy Director, American Carbon Registry, an enterprise of Winrock International
- Clay Nesler, Vice President, Global Sustainability and Regulatory Affairs, Johnson Controls
- Anna Pavlova, Vice President, Government Relations, Schneider Electric

The second panel, Accelerating Impact through International Collaboration, Coalitions and Campaigns, will highlight how the private sector – through knowledge, training, project assistance, and financing support – can enable governments to turn this increased ambition into real energy savings. With a focus on energy efficiency, panelists involved in the Three Percent Club will discuss past successes as well as opportunities to dramatically scale up climate action through increased international collaboration.

Moderator: Clay Nesler, Interim President, Alliance to Save Energy
